Candidate:	Chloe Mackallah
Party:	Independent
Division	Bayswater

Hi. My name is Chloe Mackallah. I'm an independent candidate in this Victorian election this year. I am a candidate for Bayswater District in the Legislative Assembly. The Legislative Assembly is also called the Lower House of Parliament. Bayswater includes places like Knox, Boronia, and Ferntree Gully.

I am a scientist, and I grew up in Ringwood in the east of Melbourne.

Being an independent candidate means that I don't belong to a party. Instead, I was chosen by the community. I want to make sure the government meets my community's needs.

My most important goal is to save a local lake called 'Lake Knox'. This lake is home to lots of native animals. These are animals that are only found in Australia. The Victorian Government wants to fill Lake Knox and build houses on it. Many people in my community want to save this lake. We care about protecting the environment around Lake Knox and the rest of the Bayswater District.

I want to tell you about my three most important ideas and beliefs.

First, I believe in protecting nature and the environment.

Second, I want to improve people's lives. I want to improve local healthcare, and make it easier for people to go to the doctor.

And third, I want to make sure that the government is responsible. Government makes a lot of decisions, and everyone should know how they make their decisions.

I want you to vote for me so I can protect Australian animals, and stop local parks and lakes being replaced with houses.
